

by Usman Haque

SkyEar

4 May 2004

during the lunar eclipse

newvisions

contemporary art at the National Maritime Museum

new visions

contemporary art at the National Maritime Museum

Sky Ear by Usman Haque

Evening of 4 May 2004 during the lunar eclipse View from the grounds of the National Maritime Museum outside the Queen's House (19.00 – 21.30)

Free event

During the lunar eclipse on 4 May you will have the opportunity to experience a unique event.

Hovering above the 17th century Queen's House, Sky Ear is a cloud of helium-filled balloons from which are suspended mobile phones, LEDs and electromagnetic sensors that emit different coloured lights when activated. On the evening, viewers in the grounds and people on the web will be able to dial up the cloud using freephone numbers and manipulate the patterns of illumination.

Come along early, bring a picnic and enjoy being a part of contemporary art in the making.

Equipment supplied by: Seth Garlock/Senseinate Inc and Texas Instruments

How to get there: Docklands Light Railway to Cutty Sark (Zone 2).
Rail from Charing Cross to Greenwich in around 20 minutes

For more information:
www.nmm.ac.uk
www.haque.co.uk
020 8312 6565

M NATIONAL MARITIME MUSEUM

O ROYAL OBSERVATORY
GREENWICH

ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

la Fondation Daniel Langlois
pour l'art, la science
et la technologie